

Author: Aditya Ramesh

As a college sophomore who's just beginning his study on ML, I've relied more on my intuition than standard classification algorithms.

I've first parsed my train.csv file and identified what parameters seem most popular, in a weighted manner, using which I find the "best" parameter value for each parameter.

Using this, I linearly score my cars in the test.csv file, and then accordingly generate the answer csv.